

The city of Adelaide, known for its vibrant food, culture and art festivals, is close to world-renowned wine regions, magnificent beaches and outback mountain ranges.

BIOMED CITY

Adelaide is home to the largest biomedical research precinct in the Southern Hemisphere located directly adjacent to the city centre. BioMed City's flagship facility – the South Australian Health and Medical Research Institute (SAHMRI) - is a dedicated space for advanced technology, supporting 600 leading researchers and clinicians. SAHMRI 2 is currently in development and will also be in the precinct, supporting an additional 500 researchers.
